

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for training athletes to maintain proper posture and lower body position by keeping the hips low, knees bent, and feet under the hips shoulders using at least two side straps each connected at one end to the athlete's waist and connected at the other end to the athlete's heel. A method for training athletes to improve their ability to maintain proper posture and balance in a range of sporting activities is also disclosed.